Synopsis

Actions were brought by shareholders of three corporations following tender offer for stock of one corporation. On motions for consolidation and to appoint lead counsel, the District Court, Cohill, J., held that where, although three complaints arose out of same tender offer, defendants were not all common to all cases, one complaint contained count alleging derivative suit, and one plaintiff was a corporation, neither complete consolidation nor stay of two cases would be appropriate but rather coordinated discovery would be ordered with counsel for plaintiffs in case which was filed first designated as liaison counsel.

Liaison counsel appointed for purposes of discovery proceedings.
